

Left is Right Today!

Random Kings of Factness by Jack Mingo and Erin Barrett

The Lima News – August 13, 2006

To keep the batters from being blinded by the afternoon sun, the classic baseball stadiums were built with the batter facing east, the pitcher facing west. That's how the term "southpaw" came to describe a left-handed pitcher